TANTRA AUDITIONING PART TWO

Successful stage completed in the auditioning marathon for Gay-Tantra King, Armin C. Heining's latest DVD set:
The supporting actors have been selected. A look behind the scenes

Four pairs of eyes stare at a flipchart, sporting the words "Gay Super Orgasm". This is the title of one of the four Tantra films that Armin C. Heining is going to produce. In co-operation with MÄNNER, that's why we're there at the third auditioning for supporting actors. The language used is English because half of the applicants are international. Erick (35) is a dancer, newly arrived from New Zealand. Richard (37) is an escort from London, Rainer (40) an entertainer in a drag cabaret in Halle and Stefan (40) a sexual counsellor from Frankfurt. So all four are no strangers to full body input. But do they have what it takes for the "Gay Super Orgasm"? A warm-up dance, an introductory round and a chakra breathing exercise will put that to the test. During all this they are only wearing a sarong. By the individual interview stage even that has been dropped.

Cock size and erection tricks are now asked after, motivation is sounded out and a self-presentation is demanded. Erick's expressive movements bring out the dancer in him, Stefan is obviously feeling at ease and gets a hard-on as the others cheer him on. The other two lack the necessary charm. There are two favourites. But there is still the breathing exercise and Armin is of the opinion that the rather tense Erick could overheat. Standing in a circle, the group pant their way through the chakras from pelvis to forehead and back again. None of them is ecstatic after that, but nobody has overheated either. Not even Erick. Bottom line: Stefan and Erick will be invited to the preparatory seminar for the filming. The others are rejected and receive a glass of champagne. Not bad work. Next up will be the casting of the main roles, which we will cover in our next Tantra report.
